

“Eye on AMC”

U.S. Army Materiel Command

The Army's Premier Provider of Materiel Readiness

March 2, 2007

RRAD, Armor Holdings, AAR establish new partnership

Red River Army Depot, Texas, Armor Holdings, Inc. and AAR recently announced the signing of a Public-Private Partnership focusing on the remanufacturing of the Family of Medium Tactical Vehicles.

The PPP has been in the works for several months and is a first between RRAD and Army Holdings. Three hundred vehicles will be reset under this agreement.

Under the agreement, AAR will provide logistics and inventory management support to Armor Holdings, Inc. In support of this effort, AAR and Armor Holdings are establishing a warehousing facility in New Boston, Texas. Some components and systems being rebuilt by other Armor Holdings suppliers will be incorporated into the completed vehicle at RRAD.

For more information about RRAD, visit <https://www.redriver.army.mil/>.

RRAD, DDRT join forces to save $600K

Red River Army Depot and Defense Distribution Depot Red River, Texas, conducted a four-day improvement event to brainstorm ways to change the current state of maintenance for Bradley disassembly.

The outcome was a process to remove all the fuel from the vehicle prior to delivery to RRAD. This will result in a decrease in the hours required for fuel removal and allows an opportunity for the recycling and reuse of the fuel.

The new development will also eliminate approximately 12 miles per vehicle currently required to travel to complete maintenance. A cost avoidance of $600,000 is projected after the full implementation of the new process.

For more information about RRAD, visit <http://www.ccad.army.mil/default1.htm>.

ASC executive director appointed to SES

Redding Hobby, executive director for field support, U.S. Army Sustainment Command, Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., was formally appointed to the Senior Executive Service during a recent ceremony, presided by Lt. Gen. William E. Mortensen, deputy commanding general, U.S. Army Materiel Command.

Hobby leads an organization that oversees the Army's prepositioned equipment mission, and also has responsibilities in areas such as operational planning and contingency contracting.

For more information about ASC, visit <http://www.aschq.army.mil/home/index.htm>.

CCAD deputy commander wins Joseph P. Cribbins DAC of the Year

Corpus Christi Army Depot, Texas, Deputy Commander Roy P. “Pat” Oler will receive the Joseph P. Cribbins Department of the Army Civilian of the Year Award by the Army Aviation Association of America.

Sponsored by The Boeing Company, the Joseph P. Cribbins DAC of the Year Award is presented annually to a Department of the Army Civilian who made an outstanding individual contribution to Army aviation during the previous calendar year. Vice Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Richard A. Cody, will present the award to Oler May 10, at the Annual AAAA Convention.

For more information about CCAD, visit <http://www.ccad.army.mil/default1.htm>.

To submit your news for the weekly “Eye on AMC,” e-mail AMCNewsService@HQAMC-EXCHG.ARMY.MI.